Independent Consultant

You approach your financial advisor(s) to discuss if you are eligible to apply. This may include your bank, accountant, financial advisor, rural financial counsellor, or anyone else familiar with your financial position.

You are encouraged to apply to the Farm Debt Restructure Office (FDRO) if you meet the eligibility requirements. You can find details about eligibility requirements in the Farm Business Analysis Assistance Guidelines. Part of being eligible is ensuring you and your financiers are willing and able to assist with the assessment.

Once approved, you choose your preferred independent consultant from the panel and notify the FDRO of your first and second choice of providers.

You will need to assist the independent consultant in assessing your business situation. This will include providing documents, and perhaps answering some questions.

Your financier and accountant may be asked to supply additional documents depending on your situation.

Once the report is provided you need to read it. It is recommended you share the findings with your financial advisor(s) and talk through the ideas and options in the report with the independent consultant.

What you choose to do with the information and options in the report is completely up to you. You are not obligated to take any particular course of action, or engage anyone as a result of the report.
